

Academic International Conference on Law, Economics and Finance

Call for Papers – 14th –16th December 2015

Venue: University of Cambridge, United Kingdom

Planning is now in hand for Academic International Conference on Law, Economics and Finance – AICLEF 2015 (Cambridge), which, as you may know, will be held in Cambridge, United Kingdom, on 14th –16th December 2015. The overall objective of Academic International Conference on Law, Economics and Finance (AICLEF) is to provide a platform and stimulate discussion on various issues affecting Law, economics and finance and interdisciplinary studies.

<http://aiclef.flelearning.co.uk/home> Conference Website:

<http://aiclef.flelearning.co.uk/aiclef/call-for-papers> Call for Papers Link:

<http://www.flelearning.co.uk/> Other FLE Events Link:

Research and discussion on any aspects of law, economics and finance. The deadline for proposals is 16th November 2015 by which all interested participants are required to submit a provisional title, a short abstract (300–500 words) and an indication of your willingness to participate. We highly encourage doctorate (PhD) and postgraduate students to present their research proposal or literature review or findings or issues in this conference with a very special registration fees. Case studies, abstracts of research in progress, as well as full research papers will be considered for the conference program for presentation purposes.

Please feel free to contact us if you have any questions regarding abstract/paper submission. Please forward this announcement to your colleagues and students who may be interested. We look forward to seeing you in Cambridge.

With best wishes,

FLE Learning

Conference Division

T: 0044 131 463 7007

F: 0044 131 608 0239

submit@flelearning.co.uk E:

www.flelearning.co.uk W: