1. DELEGATES

Are you a leader, a leadership researcher, or a leadership developer?

Do you want to:

- Achieve even better results?
- Secure an edge over your competitors?
- Learn about the latest performance boosting techniques?
- Network with leading leadership practitioners, researchers, developers?

Advances in Leadership, 2015, brings together many of the top thought-leaders and practitioners in leadership to share advances that can improve your results as a practitioner, researcher or developer.

As an example, Advances in Leadership, 2014, presented advances in:

- Trust – what is it, its dimensions and how they impact on leadership – a new model
- Questions – as a leadership performance technique
- Beliefs – advances in understanding their role in leading performance enhancements
- Motivation – new ideas and techniques for leaders
- Change – new leadership lessons from change in the public eye
- Crisis – new techniques for mastering extreme leadership events
- Risk – a new model to mitigate ethical, cultural and reputational risk
- Leadership development techniques – a new perspective – focusing on success factors
- Leadership – new learning principles of success from catastrophe
- In the field focus – moving leadership from subject to craft

Developing leadership – without 'developing leadership'
Psychology – how mental health principles improve performance
Imported methods – harnessing successful methods from other disciplines

Networking and Collaboration

Make contact with leaders who are as motivated as you to advance their skills.
Make contact with fellow top leadership practitioners, developers and researchers, who could provide you with tools, techniques and contacts, mutual support, and business opportunities.

If you are in the field of LEADERSHIP, Advances in Leadership is designed and run for you, by people just like you.

2. CALL FOR SPEAKERS

'Advances in Leadership' brings together advanced leadership practitioners, top leadership developers and cutting-edge leadership researchers to share advances in leadership, and through their cooperation, to trigger further advances in leadership.

If you have made advances in the field of leadership, you are formally invited to share them with others who have also made progress in the field.

Speakers at Advances in Leadership 2012, 2013, 2014 were advanced leadership practitioners, leading leadership developers, and top level leadership researchers.

If you have made advances in leadership and would like to form alliances, network, and share cutting-edge expertise with the best in the field, please send your abstract/overview of the advances you have made by 17:00 hours on the 14th of August 2015.

Advances in Leadership 2012, 2013 and 2014 were highly successful, and most speakers and participants formed new alliances, did business with each other, found improved research and or job opportunities, and learned about the advances going on at the cutting-edge of their field.

DO MY ADVANCES FIT?

If you wish to discuss a possible advance and whether it fits the aims of the conference please email to start discussions and conference@advancesinleadership.org Prof Nigel MacLennan at this address: arrange a telephone exploration of your advances.

STUDENT COMPETITION: To further the development of leadership and encourage students at all levels to harness their creative abilities to advance the field, Advances in Leadership runs an annual student competition.

Undergraduate and postgraduate students are invited to send abstracts of the advances they have made in the field of leadership. The resident experts (most of whom are Professors in the field and have all published their own advances) then select what they believe is the greatest advance made. The winner secures a place to present their work at Advances in Leadership 2015. To enter, please send your abstract/overview along with this subject heading: Advances in Leadership 2015 – Student Competition, before 17:00 hours on 2nd November 2015.
